There has been a multi-vehicle collision in a small community. There are 3 injured patients but they are trapped in the vehicle and it’s getting cold!

Police, Fire and EMS must navigate the scene to safely extricate the patients and get them to the hospital. X-ray is not available in the rural hospital, is there any other way to assess the severity of injury?

The patient decompensates on transfer and needs extreme lifesaving measures but how do we know it will help? How do we know that trauma interventions save lives?

The scenario above is fictional, any resemblance to real persons, is coincidental.
