

John Hopkins has an interesting and interactive map that is updated regularly:

<https://coronavirus.jhu.edu/map.html>

The CDC (Center for Disease Control) has a useful site:

<https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html>

Wikipedia actually has reasonable information discussing coronavirus in general and some background information on SARS, MERS CoV and COVID-19:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Coronavirus#Severe\_acute\_respiratory\_syndrome\_\(SARS\))

EMRap (EMRap.org) have a few podcasts that have some interesting information and I believe that the March COVID-19 update is available to all even if you do not have a subscription:

<https://www.emrap.org/episode/covid19updateem/covid19updateem>

The Government of Canada has a detailed webpage dedicated to COVID-19 issues (medical, recommendations, economic, etc.):

<https://www.canada.ca/en/public-health/services/diseases/coronavirus-disease-covid-19.html>